Name of the Coordinator	Mr. B. Kalyan Kumar, Assistant Professor
Target audience	MBA Students
Total no of students	115
Objective the event	1. To enhance students' communication, presentation, and interpersonal skills. 2. To improve critical thinking and analytical abilities through structured discussions. 3. To develop leadership, teamwork, and decision-making competencies. 4. To prepare students for recruitment processes where group discussions are a key selection criterion. 5. To build confidence in expressing ideas, opinions, and arguments effectively.
Description of the event	The Department of MBA organized a two-day Group Discussion program for MBA students as part of its skill development initiatives. The sessions were facilitated by department faculty members and focused on contemporary business, economic, social, and management-related topics. Students were divided into groups and encouraged to participate actively in discussions, present their viewpoints, and engage in constructive debates. Faculty members evaluated the participants based on communication ability, content knowledge, leadership qualities, teamwork, confidence, and overall performance. The activity provided a platform for students to learn from one another while improving their professional communication and problem-solving skills.

Activities Conducted	• Group discussions on current affairs and business topics. • Team-based problem-solving discussions. • Presentation of viewpoints and counterarguments. • Faculty observations and performance evaluation. • Individual feedback and improvement suggestions.
Outcome of the Event	The program significantly improved students' communication, analytical thinking, leadership, and teamwork skills. Participants gained confidence in expressing their ideas effectively, learned the importance of active listening, and developed the ability to think critically under time constraints. The activity also enhanced their preparedness for employment selection processes and managerial responsibilities.
Feedback	Students appreciated the interactive and practical nature of the sessions. They found the discussions engaging and beneficial for improving communication, confidence, and teamwork. Participants expressed that the activity helped them identify their strengths and areas requiring further improvement.
Linkage with Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs)	SDG 4 – Quality Education: Promoted experiential learning, communication skills, and lifelong learning competencies. SDG 8 – Decent Work and Economic Growth: Enhanced employability skills such as communication, critical thinking, and teamwork required in professional workplaces. SDG 17 – Partnerships for the Goals: Encouraged collaboration, teamwork, and knowledge sharing among students.
Conclusion	The two-day Group Discussion program successfully provided students with a valuable platform to enhance their communication and managerial competencies. The event contributed to students' personal and professional development by strengthening skills essential for academic success, leadership, and employability.
