About the Event	The industrial visit to Tirumala Cotton Mills was organized to provide MBA students with practical exposure to cotton processing and textile manufacturing operations. The visit aimed to bridge the gap between theoretical knowledge and real-time industrial practices.
Objectives	The objective of the industrial visit was to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of cotton processing and yarn manufacturing processes. It aimed to help students study machinery operations and production techniques, observe quality control measures and safety practices, and gain insights into supply chain and inventory management. Additionally, the visit was intended to familiarize students with industrial workflow and management practices in a real-time textile manufacturing environment.
Outcomes	Students gained knowledge of the complete production cycle from raw cotton to finished yarn , along with an understanding of quality testing, safety practices, production planning, inventory management, and distribution systems. This enhanced their ability to connect management concepts with practical applications in the textile industry.
Feedback	Students appreciated the clear explanations provided by the technical team and found the visit highly informative. The visit improved their understanding of production systems, safety standards, and quality management, making the experience valuable for their academic and professional development.
